Dragonfly Pattern: Pattern can be found on WWW.temarikai.com. Click on Patterns, then click on combination 8 divisions and scroll down until you see the dragonfly pattern. Please print your own pattern and bring to class. Here is a link in case you get lost. <http://www.temarikai.com/PatternsPages/C8/C8DivisionPage1.html>

You will need:

- A mari of 23-25 cm in circumference. Use about $\frac{3}{4}$ cup of rice hulls
- Regular sewing thread of a contrasting color for marking guidelines.
- Thread of your choice for the dragonflies. #5 pearle cotton is always good.

See you in class!

I want you to use your imagination and you may customize your temari as you wish. I recommend keeping your dragonflies all the same so you will have a good chance of finishing the temari (or almost finishing) in the allotted time. Also, uniformity is a good thing. You may try a variegated thread for variety. Use a darker color for the mari ball and lighter for the dragonflies.

Remember: We will remove the guideline threads when you complete your dragonflies so they will look like they are floating in air! That way you don't have to worry about specialty threads.

Locate the 8 large triangles formed by the division markings. Following the diagram, stitch the tonbo (dragonfly) motif in each triangle. Blue lines and numbered points indicate matsuba kagari stitching for wings; red lines indicate tsumu kagari for bodies.
